

Jewellery / Wed, 21st February 2018 / Lot 595

LOT 595

An Edward VII gold, diamond, ruby and enamelled brooch in the form of the King's Royal Cypher, designed as a rose cut diamond set crown above a rose cut diamond set initial 'E' and a ruby set number '7' against a blue enamelled ground, within a scroll surround mounted with three circular cut diamonds, length 3.7cm, total diamond weight approx 0.60ct, accompanied by a note detailed 'This gold/ruby/diamond piece of jewellery was given to my Grandmother Lillie Langtry in 1879 by Edward VII (she was his mistress) Mary Malcolm (granddaughter)'.

Estimate: £700 - £1,000

Condition Report

595. Cut: old European cut diamonds and square cut rubies. Colour: diamonds are approx I-J, faint florescence. Clarity: diamonds are approx VS2-SI1. Carat: rubies approx 0.03ct-0.06ct in total. The roller pin fitting and clasp are possibly later. In very good condition. Gold mounted.

Created: Fri, 16th February 2018 12:28