Condition Report

610. There is rather more variation of colour and mottling to the smaller beads. The larger beads are tending to be a little more uniform, there is some variation of polish to the beads. It is likely that the beads have been re-threaded from other necklaces in the past. One of the smaller beads is fairly damaged. There are one or two surface marks to other beads and there is variation of symmetry to the shapes of the beads. Loose beads: there is some chipping and wear to the drill holes, particularly with the larger beads.
