

Silver and Plate / Wed, 20th February 2019 / Lot 360

LOT 360

A set of six Victorian silver novelty cruets, each titled rectangular twin lidded box surmounted by a different detachable novelty pepper caster in the form of a character from R.S. Surtees's 'Jorrocks' novels, comprising 'Oh Hunting', 'The Sporting Lecture', two 'James Pigg', 'Thinks He Will Shoot Doleful' and 'The Old Customer', together with sets of six silver mustard and salt spoons, each with riding whip handle, London 1878 by Richards & Brown, heights of cruets from 13cm to 17.5cm.

Estimate: £3,000 - £5,000

Condition Report

360. Overall they are in very good condition. No significant damage or repair. All hallmarks are matching, some marks on bases, slightly rubbed but still perfectly readable. Typical light surface scratches and minor wear. The only damage of any significance is to the base of 'Oh Hunting' where the left back corner has had a small knock which has slightly bent the corner of the hinge lid and corner of the box.

Created: Mon, 18th February 2019 14:32