LOT 1019

A Chinese jade carving, Ming dynasty, carved and pierced with a pair of crane beside rocks and lingzhi fungus, the stone of celadon and black mottled tone, length 12.5cm, with a carved wood stand, together with a Tibetan gilt bronze Buddha's arm, 18th century, modelled holding a kapala, length 15cm.

Estimate: £100 - £200

Condition Report

1019. Carving is in good condition with no apparent damage or repairs. There are a few line inclusions to the darker side of the stone and some glue residue to base where it has been glued into the stand. The arm has typical wear to gilt but otherwise how it appears in images.
