

Asian and Islamic Ceramics and Works of Art / Thu, 10th October 2019 / Lot 1198

LOT 1198

A collection of Chinese silkwork embroideries, mostly late Qing dynasty, comprising an altar panel, worked in coloured and metallic thread with the eight immortals on an orange ground above a tasselled border, 57.5cm x 336cm, two further red ground altar panels, one decorated with a scene of dignitaries, attendants and horse and elephant-drawn chariots, 44.5cm x 216cm, the other with birds, butterflies and peony, 50cm x 203cm, a black silk robe, decorated with gilt thread dragons, and another black silk robe, decorated in coloured thread with dragons and phoenixes.

Estimate: £60 - £100

---

Condition Report

1198. Red figural panel - colours good and vibrant and in good condition with only very minor unstitching to a few bits of gilt thread.

Orange figural panel - generally good condition, typical light wear and very minor unstitching, but no significant damage or repairs.

Red butterfly, flowers and crane panel - generally good condition, some minor creases and some minor losses to some stitching. Typical wear. Overall ok with good vibrant colours.

2 black robes - generally good condition with typical wear etc.

Created: Tue, 8th October 2019 10:43