LOT 1272

A Regency mahogany bracket clock, the brass twin fusee movement striking hours on a gong with pull repeat mechanism, the painted circular dial with black Roman numerals and inscribed 'J. Watkins London', the case with brass line inlaid decoration, the sides with pierced brass fret panels, on a cushion and rectangular plinth base with ball feet, height 44cm, with pendulum.

Estimate: £300 - £500

Condition Report

1272. Very dirty mechanism that will require a full overhaul to return to working order. Gong train will run but strike train not operating. Gong mechanism insecure in the case. Repainted dial and poor quality replacement hands. Case in reasonable condition with some age related scratches. All brass inlay intact. Side frets insecure. No keys.
