LOT 1086

A Chinese famille verte porcelain footed cup, Kangxi period, with later mounted silver rim and a pair of foliate capped scroll handles, the cylindrical body on a skirted foot, painted with two opposing rectangular panels of precious objects and two figures, reserved against a black dotted green ground filled with flowering stems, unmarked, height 13.7cm (repaired and hairline cracks).

Estimate: £400 - £600

Condition Report

1086. It is definitely old, but we believe it was originally a jar and cover. The handles have been broken off and a later, but still old, silver rim and handles have been added. The porcelain has two cracks emanating from beneath the rim at one handle and a small crack beneath the rim at the other handle. You can just about see where the original handles would have been, but almost entirely disguised by new handle mounts. Otherwise the rest of the body and foot in good order and the decoration is good vibrant colours.
