LOT 1204

A Chinese laque burgaut double snuff bottle, probably late Qing dynasty, modelled as a water buffalo wearing a saddle cloth and carrying two bottles, height 7.8cm (repaired and missing a stopper), together with a small group of other South-east Asian works of art including a bronze Buddhistic lion censer and cover, height 14.5cm, a Canton export lacquer small box with hinged lid, length 9.7cm, and a plated box and cover of oval form with engraved lines of calligraphic text opposite a scene of two figures, height 7.6cm (some faults).

Estimate: £100 - £200

Condition Report

1204. Double snuff bottle - broken and glued front left leg and missing one bottle stopper, otherwise some minor surface hairlines with good quality inlay.

Censer - generally in good condition with surface wear and scratches.

Lacquer box - typical flakes and chips to edges of decoration and wear/scratches to decoration overall, otherwise okay.

Plated oval box - base panel repaired but loose in places, overall surface wear, scratches and dirty.

Enamel pails/buckets - both with significant misshaping and some loss to enamel, one with split to side.

Corner mounts - all in generally fair condition with some minor loss and minor misshaping to edges. Also further enamel loss and misshaping to each reverse.
