LOT 1560

An English porcelain Chelsea style Goat jug, early 19th century, modelled after Nicholas Sprimont, with two recumbent goats seated nose to tail, a flowering plant above, the handle terminals with oak leaves, incised triangle mark, height 11.5cm (handle restored). Note: this is a rarer variation of the famous jug modelled without a bee.

Estimate: £70 - £100

Condition Report

1560. All of handle with old yellowed restoration and with losses to oak leaves applied along and at handle terminals. Minor chip to rim of spout. Tiny spot of restoration to goat's nose by handle. Small stain spots to footrim edge.
