

British and Continental Ceramics / Thu, 19th November 2020 / Lot 1474

LOT 1474

A group of Doulton stoneware, late 19th/early 20th century, including a commemorative Queen Victoria 1887 Jubilee jug, height 18.5cm, a Big Ben Scotch whisky flagon, height 17.5cm, and a tobacco jar and cover, height 13.5cm, together with a stoneware harvest jug (minor faults).

Estimate: £70 - £100

---

Condition Report

Queen Victoria Jug - in good condition overall with no cracks, chips or restoration.

Big Ben - some minor surface scratches but in good condition overall, lacking stopper.

Tobacco - tiny chip to underside edge of cover, very minor glaze nick to top rim edge of jar, otherwise ok.

Large harvest jug - faint starcrack beneath base by handle.

Middle sized harvest jug - in good condition overall with no cracks, chips or restoration.

Smallest harvest jug - handle broken off and visibly restuck.

Small pot with shells - approx 0.5cm square chip to upper rim edge, otherwise ok.

Created: Tue, 17th November 2020 16:01