LOT 1340

Two Japanese Kobe carved and painted wood automaton toys, early 20th century, one modelled as a musician beating a drum with articulated head, arms and legs, height 9.5cm, the other a seated fish vendor raising a dish to his head, height 11cm (minor faults).

Estimate: £100 - £150

Condition Report

1340. Musician - generally in good condition but with typical scuffs and wear, no significant damage or repairs, arms, legs and head all move as they should.

Fishmonger - generally in good condition, but wear to staining on head and body in particular, no significant damage or repairs, automaton features work as they should. Bottle/club possibly replaces a knife?
