Henry Stacy Marks - 'The Lady's Tailor in the Olden Times', late 19th century oil on board, signed with initials recto, titled verso, 19cm x 24cm, within an inscribed mount and gilt composition frame of wide section with foliate scroll crests.

Estimate: £400 - £600

Condition Report

Generally in good condition. Previously cleaned and with touches of overpainting. Minor craquelure. Old varnish has started to yellow and discolour, it has also started to dull a little in places as it looks a little uneven. Small indentation visible at certain angles only, running horizontally across the centre but with no sign of splitting or other damage, suggesting it has always been there. Paint a little thin in places. Frame in good condition. Some minor chips and rubbing to extremities. Also some minor cracks to composition with occasional minor repairs. The frame appears to have been varnished or lacquered, this has separated.
