LOT 1014

A Chinese famille verte porcelain circular bowl, Daoguang mark and probably of the period, painted and gilt with four circular panels enclosing characters, within a border of iron red lotus flowers on scrolling tendril stems, above a blue and yellow

Estimate: £400 - £600

Condition Report

1014. The bowl is in good condition overall with no cracks or restoration. There is a small uneven blemish to the footrim - probably since manufacture - and the top rim edge has an uneven finish, probably again since manufacture, with some very minor fritting, more easily felt than seen. The gilding has typical wear, particularly to the rim. The enamels don't display wear as such, but the pale green tendrils have quite a wishy-washy appearance - more than likely a manufacturing issue. Some typical light surface scratches to bowl interior.
