LOT 1358

A Chinese flambé glazed porcelain bottle vase, probably 20th century, the globular body and slightly flared narrow neck covered in a streaky lilac over sang-de-boeuf glaze rising to a cream rim, height 44.5cm.

Estimate: £800 - £1,200

Condition Report

The body of the vase and neck are in good condition with no significant damage or repairs. Typical light surface scratches to body and light crazing visible to cream rim. Good vibrant glaze. The base of the vase has been drilled and there is a permanently fixed threaded screw to the centre surrounded by a large disc of glue where it has been mounted as a table lamp.
