A mid-19th century Continental gold and enamel musical fob seal pendant, probably Swiss, the cylinder musical movement with comb stack of nine teeth, housed within a gold oval case with start/stop control to side, the openwork upper section with chased floral decoration picked out in blue and turquoise enamel, enclosing a central winder set with four red paste ovals, all beneath a suspension loop, height 4.1cm (cover detached).

Estimate: £100 - £200

Condition Report

2337. Please note amended size of 4.1cm, not 41cm as previously listed.

The movement is currently working but is obviously very quiet due to its size. The slide button on side still operates the mechanism. The case has overall surface wear and is missing much of its enamel. The oval corner is loose and has some old soldered repairs to its edge, as well as some surface dents.
