LOT 2357

An early 20th century Continental pewter novelty inkwell, attributed to Kayserzinn, modelled as a grotesque bird of squat globular form, the pewter body supporting a glazed pottery interior and glass well, height 11cm.

Estimate: £250 - £350

Condition Report

2357. The pewter has a generally aged and dirty surface with a slightly un-even patina, but is otherwise ok. The ceramic interior has a thin hairline and some overall crazing. The glass inkwell has a small chip to the rim.
