

British and Continental Ceramics / Thursday, 30th May 2024 / Lot 1646

LOT 1646

A Keller & Guerin Luneville French pottery part service, 20th century, typically painted with floral sprays and scattered sprigs within pink edged rims, comprising a soup tureen and cover, a pair of oval platters, length 35cm, a pair of double-spouted two-handled sauceboats with integral stands, thirty-three dinner plates, diameter 25.5cm, eight soup plates, ten plates, 18cm diameter, eleven plates, 15cm diameter, two large circular dishes, a flat circular platter, diameter 31cm, five crescent shaped dishes and six oblong dishes, length 26.5cm, together with a Copeland Spode Marlborough Sprays pattern matched sauce tureen and cover and four dessert plates (minor faults).

Estimate: £100 - £200

Condition Report

Overall the service is in very good condition with no significant damage or repairs. There is some light crazing and a little staining but nothing unsightly or terrible.

The oval platters and circular platter have some light surface scratches.

As a whole I would suggest the service has not been used much.

Tureen has minor glaze nick to rim edge, and the apple finial has a glued repair to its underside which is only visible when closely inspected.

Two of the 25.5cm diameter plates have a small chip to the upper rim edge.

Copeland Spode tureen and cover has very small chip to outer edge of foot.